Rhetoric of Syntactic Structures in Tarikh-e Bayhaqi

Written by: Leila Seyyed Ghasem

Illustrated by: Hermes Group

Publisher: Hermes

Category: Literature

Publish Date: 2017

403 Pages

ISBN: 978-600-456-005-4

Book About:

Rhetoric of syntactic structures is a part of rhetorical art that its theory was first developed by Abd al-Qahir al-Jurjani, the famous grammarian and literary theorist of fifth century AH and now is known as “theory of construction (nazm)”. According to this theory, syntax has an unknown capability in semantic innovations that is usually ignored. Based on the Persian language syntax in one of the great works of Persian prose literature i.e. Tarikh-e Bayhaqi, the writer of this book tries to find and show the syntactic structures of this language that lead to semantic innovations.

Author About:

Leila Seyyed Ghasem has a Ph.D. in Persian language and literature. She has defended her doctoral dissertation named “Rhetoric of Syntactic Structures in Tarikh-e Bayhaqi” under the supervision of prof. Mohammad-Reza Shafiei Kadkani, the Persian writer, poet and literary critic.

The Sea of Knowledge

Written by: نصرالله پورجوادی

Illustrated by: Hermes Group

Publisher: Hermes

Category:

Publish Date: 2015

226 Pages

ISBN: 978-964-363-944-0

Book About:

Knowledge has a central place in Islamic mysticism, so that a mystic's endeavors are totally turned towards knowing the Beloved. Clearly this kind of spiritual knowledge differs from other conventional forms of knowledge, and consequently its language is different with other fields of study's languages. Mystics have had to use metaphors for explaining their experiences and insights, and one of the most accepted metaphors has been "the sea". They liken the authentic and ultimate mystical knowledge to the sea and consider other forms of knowledge as a shore along which a man just can see an image of the sea and if somebody want to get a real understanding of it, he or she should leave the shore and plunge into the water. In this book, the writer tries to study different views of different Muslim mystics toward this metaphor, and hereby he examines some other mystical topics like ignorance, bewilderment, love, divine love, etc.
